NSF STIS – Science and Technology Information System

Address:
STIS
National Science Foundation
Division of Information Systems (Room 401)
1800 G Street NW
Washington, DC 20550

Email: stis-request@nsf.gov

Phone: (202) 357-7555 (Voice mail)
TDD: (202) 357-7492

Description

STIS is an electronic dissemination system that provides fast, easy access to National Science Foundation (NSF) publications. There is no cost to you except for possible long-distance phone charges. The service is available twenty-four hours a day, except for maintenance periods.

Publications currently available include:

- The NSF Bulletin
- Program announcements and "Dear Colleague" letters
- General publications and reports
- Press releases
- NSF organization charts and phone books
- NSF vacancy announcements
- Award abstracts (1989-now)

Network Access

There are many ways to access STIS. Choose the method that meets your needs and the communication facilities you have available.

- Electronic documents via electronic mail. Send a message to stisserv@nsf.gov. Put the command get index in the text of your message.
- Anonymous FTP. Connect to stis.nsf.gov. Retrieve the file index.
- Direct E-mail. This service automatically mails you information about documents added to STIS. For information on this, send the command get stisdirm to stisserv@nsf.gov.
- Gopher. Connect to port 70 on host stis.nsf.gov.
- WAIS. There are two databases on stis.nsf.gov. nsf-pubs contains all documents and publications, and nsf-awards contains award abstracts.
- Online STIS. You must have a VT100 emulator. Telnet to stis.nsf.gov, and log on as public.

The information in this section is provided in accordance with the copyright notice appearing at the front of this guide.

Who Can Use the System

STIS is available to the public. There is no charge for any of the services, and no need to register for a password.